I know at least 40% of you predicted he'd find some reason to bail before completion, and a good 90% of you pointed out it would have to happen if Tesla stock dropped enough. The prophecies are fulfilled! (Hopefully)

i was on tumblr when yahoo had to sell it for $3 million after buying it for $1.1 billion. we were all a little bit responsible for losing yahoo a billion dollars. and with that type of collective effort, i believe we here on twitter can lose elon musk even more

been wondering why Musk has been melting down today and turns out he's now lost like 1/3rd of his wealth since he started this fiasco of a takeover and it's now almost certain that he will never own Twitter because he simply cannot afford it

The edible has kicked in and now I'm fully considering whether I want to try "Twitter prophecy" in which I write a bunch of tweets for future situations so I can strategically RT the ones that turn out relevant

I'm holding strong with my gut feeling that the trailer will open with Martinet's "It's-a-me, Mario!" over the title, only to cut to Mario either holding a mini-Mario or staring at an arcade cabinet, only to look at Luigi and say, "I don't sound like that, do I?"

we hold all the cards. weve spent 20 years of our lives honing our craft. if enough of us post "Boo" at the dow jones, the shit will plummet

Sometimes a tweet pops into the TL and just makes so much sense that you know you're reading a prophecy in real time

In a way The Matrix is almost like a prophecy, like a premonition of how gritty and real things were about to get over the next two decades. Twitter keeps telling me trans people in indigenous cultures are traditionally considered priests or prophets, and I'm starting to see why

The aversion & liking the person then combine to make it a symbol, and then fulfilling the symbol becomes meaningful. It's a self-fulfilling prophecy but people don't realize because they're only consciously aware of the meaningful symbol part!

Of course, you'll pretty quickly run into some other problems if your process is as described above. 11 years from now there'll be tweets like "It's surprisingly high value to understand the process that generates data before you make decisions about it" and I will literally die

As I was watching The Dark Crystal movie, one thing I kept being confused by is how incredibly incompetent Jen is. I mean, he literally knows nothing about the prophecy to start. All of his achievements come from Aughra's or Kira's help. He's so unprepared it's ridiculous.

S1 was about the charm of seeing Norse myths interpreted by the people whose ancestors created them. The old crone who prophecies is the cashier at the grocery store, Thor is dyslexic, etc. The stories were retold so organically that you appreciated them in a new way.

We've come to the fun part of macroeconomics, self-fulfilling prophecies! Market crashes are caused by enough people anticipating a crash and pulling out their money that, well, the market crashes. Obvs I'm not a financial advisor, but I personally would not buy right now.
