As I read this tweet, an instrumental guitar cover “Wildest Dreams” came on the restaurant stereo where I’m having lunch

I don't think he can do that without congressional approval but I'm retweeting anyway.

(me explaining this to non-political folks) "you see, unlike the petroleum reserves which can be used anytime willynilly, the Swift reserves are so incredibly valuable they can only be used in times national crisis and war. Article II specifies only Congress can make that call"

The President might not be able to release more Taylor tickets, but Congress can pass antitrust legislation and DOJ can investigate Ticketmaster.

Yay! Although something needs to be done about this now, it should have been done years ago. I recently watched a video about this issue and am baffled as to why Congress allowed it to happen. Where are the individuals, who are supposed to monitor this?

Well now the Republicans can open a committee and investigate these monopoly companies, if they aren't too busy reliving the past, they live in the past.
