Okay, I give up. How's the NYPD paying $2M to a company registered to some guy's Brooklyn apartment when the guy says he's never heard of the company and is broke

Meanwhile, an apartment in East Flatbush is listed as the headquarters of Eastern Horizon, a camera systems company being paid $2 million as part of a larger NYPD $487 million contract, the details of which are not clear.

“Various Cameras, Recorders, and Accessories” is how the company is described in the contract.

Reached by the Daily News Sunday, Simon Sankar, who lives in that apartment and is listed as the firm’s executive director, said he’s never heard of Eastern Horizon and had no dealings with the NYPD.

“I have no idea what you’re talking about,” he said. “This is very upsetting. I can barely pay my bills and my rent I have nothing to do with any of this.”

Hey there Jimbo, did you know that it's a war crime for soldiers or guerillas to dress as civilians or in an enemy uniform. But when cops disguise themselves as civilians and drag you into a van or behind police line its completely fine.

Also using tear gas is forbidden by the geneva conventions but its okay to use it on civilians at home.

Aint that just quackin' crazy Jimbo?!

Holding two contradictory ideas in mind simultaneously — the Evening two contradictory lucas in him simultaneously — we pandemic is over, we still have a problem with Covid — is intensely discomfiting, psychologists say. It is a form of cognitive dissonance, experienced when one's behaviors or actions are at odds with the information or understanding they have.

People are driven to reduce the discord by reconciling conflicting thoughts and behaviors, but the process is not a conscious one, said Elliot Aronson, a professor emeritus of social psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz.
