He doesn't pay taxes anyway. He doesn't need to piss away tens of billions to further not pay taxes.

He's probably talking up buying the whole stock to inflate his own shares for a pump-and-dump. Which he'll get away with because they can't afford to prosecute him.

Make him buy Twitter for 273.6 billion USD. Then once the deal closes everyone on Twitter mass-migrates to the Mastodon.social federated social network and abandons this place, therefore crashing the value of Twitter in the process.

The screenshot shows a Google search results page with a dark theme. At the top, there's a navigation bar with a menu icon, the Google logo, and a profile picture of a pony. Below the search bar, which contains the query "elon musk net worth", are several search categories: All (underlined), News, Images, Videos, Maps, and Shopping. The main content area features a large title "Elon Musk" and a sub-section "Net worth". To the right of the text is a small portrait photo of Elon Musk. Below this, a large bold text displays "273.6 billion USD" followed by the year "2022". At the bottom of the search results, there are standard interaction icons: reply, retweet, heart, downvote, and upvote.
