Ticketmaster is destroying live music.

Their scam fees now cost as much as 78% of a ticket. They control the events, the venues, even the artists.

There's a movement pushing the Justice Department to take on their monopoly.

Yes they could but TM/LN has exclusivity arrangements with approx 70% of the stadiums in the USA, so they would only be able to book with smaller venues which would make things more difficult for larger touring artists

About damn time!! Ticketmaster fees are almost half the price of a ticket. And "handling fees"? Wtf is that for? It's all electronic. No one is "handling" anything.

Oh and while we're on the subject of governments letting monopolies happen, which in fact they do, there's a supermarket Monopoly going on right now, that the government could give two shit's about, but we'll hear about it in 10 years.
